HULL WOULD SEND SHIPS TO WAR ZONE

Testifies Before Senate Committee on Repeal of Neutrality Act.

SESSION HELD SECRET

Urges Arming of U. S. Vessels With Permission To Enter Combat Area.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Hull said today he believed that a neutrality act provision which bans American merchant vessels from specified combat zones should be "repealed or modified."

He tossed his recommendation into a request that congress repeal now the section of the act which prohibits arming of the ships.

Hull's statement, given to the senate foreign relations committee behind closed doors, was supplied also by the state department.

Hull specifically urged the repeal of Section Six of the act, which prohibits the arming of merchant vessels, and of Section Two (which prohibits their entry into specified combat zones) declared:

"Inasmuch as Section Two is not under consideration I will offer no comment except to say that in my judgment Section Two should be repealed or modified."

"When American ships are being wantonly and unlawfully attacked with complete disregard of life and property," the secretary said, "It is absurd to forego any legitimate measures that may be helpful toward self defense. It is especially absurd to continue to tie our hands by a provision of law which prohibits arming our merchant vessels for their own defense."

It would be "little short of criminal negligence," for the United States to cling to the hope of somehow escaping the fate of other countries, he testified.

In the White House at the other end of Pennsylvania avenue congressional leaders meanwhile sought to learn from President Roosevelt whether he still favored limiting revision now to the house-approved ship arming measure, or whether he would approve an attempt for even broader changes in the existing law.

This conference with Mr. Roosevelt seemed likely to determine the future course of the repeal drive, because advocates of delivering the goods to Britain now claim a one-vote margin within the committee for nullification of the neutrality act's prohibitions both against ship arming and also

Wickard Warns On Inflation

Agriculture Secretary Backs Measure to Control Price.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard told the house banking committee today that this country "may be starting on the same ruinous inflation we set out upon about the same time in the last war."

Urging the committee to approve the administration's price control bill, Wickard declared that while recent increases in farm prices have been "unusually rapid," they are not yet "out of line."

This is so, he explained, because the levels from which these prices have risen were abnormally low. He said that in 1939 farm prices were so low that farmers' purchasing power was only three-fourths of what it had been in 1910-1914—the parity base period.

Wickard told the committee that "thus far, the parallel between World war I and World war II as far as farm prices and costs are concerned is too close for comfort."

"Farmers have been accused of greediness, of not being content with parity," Wickard testified. "Let me say here and now that accusations of that sort are unjustified and unfair.

"I can testify from my own experience of the past 30 years that whenever farmers get a price rise, it is usually swift but brief; whereas when a farmer's costs rise, they may not go up as swiftly, but once they get up, they stay there."

Wickard said that while heavier taxation, increased savings and checks on installment credit are necessary to control inflation, most important of all is the necessity for increased production.

"That is the surest preventive of inflation," he said.

Wickard pointed out that this is the first time in two decades that the farmer's purchasing power has reached the parity level.

He said that the bill's provision that no price on farm products may be set at less than 110 per cent of parity is "perfectly practical and obvious."

FDR MOVES TO SPEED UP WAR AID TO RUSSIA

Hurries Back To Capital After Hearing Harriman Report on Soviet Situation.

WILL SEE ENVOY AGAIN

Head of Mission Reports He Still Has Confidence In Russian Defense.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The urgency of getting arms to Russia — in quantity and in time—stood foremost today among internationally touchy problems which required the consideration of President Roosevelt upon his return to the capital from a week-end visit to his home at Hyde Park.

Russian aid figured directly or indirectly in a series of White House conferences called for today. One was with W. Averell Harriman, just back from Moscow, where he headed an American mission which canvassed Soviet needs for arms and war supplies.

Another was with John Biggers, likewise just returned from Europe on an assignment as lease-lend "expediter" in London.

Upon his return to Washington this morning Mr. Roosevelt went directly to the White House.

The president talked with Harriman yesterday at Hyde Park in a three-hour conference in which Harry L. Hopkins, who superintends lease-lend activities for the chief executive, also participated.

After it was over, and just before he boarded a navy plane for Washington for parleys with state, war and navy department officials, Harriman informed reporters he had reported to the president that he had "great confidence" in the Russian situation.

But, while suggesting a possibility that he or Mr. Roosevelt might have a statement to make today, he dodged an inquiry whether he meant that Russia would continue to fight on.

The tense situation in the Far East, including the formation of a new cabinet in Tokyo, as well as the torpedoing of the destroyer Kearny near Iceland, were two more facets of international affairs to which Mr. Roosevelt was expected to devote some time.

Both those events occurred after he left Washington Friday and it was understood full reports on them were awaiting him here.

Premier Josef Stalin was reported today to have gone to the front to supervise directly the Russian defense of Moscow, the nation's "Holy City." Stalin was reported to have toured the entire 300-mile front in an armored train.

Even Children Pitch In To Set Up Fortifications Around Besieged Capital.

BULLETIN

BERLIN —(U.P.)— The German high command reported today that "important portions" of its land and air forces have been shifted from the Leningrad front and thrown against other Soviet positions, presumably including the Moscow defense lines.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Adolf Hitler's armies in Russia were reported stalled by a stubborn defense before Moscow today, but they resumed with increased power their drive against Donets industrial basin in the south and announced capture of Stalino, an armaments city of 455,000 population only 100 miles northwest of Rostov.

Official Soviet reports in Moscow stated that the capital's great defenses, being strengthened hourly by a civilian army, still held as strong Soviet counterattacks turned back the huge Nazi forces which have been pounding this front steadily for nearly three weeks.

As the capture of Stalino was being claimed by the German high command, the official Russian news agency, Tass, was acknowledging in Moscow a retirement to previously prepared lines near Taganrog, south of Stalino.

Before the capital itself, however, all indications were that the Russians were holding firm, for the moment at least, under a terrific hammering.

For the fourth successive time, the Moscow communique told of particularly violent fighting in the regions of Mozhaisk and Maloyaroslavets, respectively 57 miles west and 65 miles south of Moscow. It also announced continued

Industry Here Joins In OPM Job Program

Names Committee To Cooperate With Federal Agency To Ease Problems; Congressmen Study Ohio's Status.

While Mansfield manufacturers announced the appointment of a special industrial relations committee to cooperate with local labor unions and Office of Production Management workers to ease local labor dislocations today, other Ohio industrialists were meeting with seven Republican congressmen in Columbus to discuss the effect of defense priorities on small non-defense industries.

The manufacturers' committee was named last night at a meeting of industrialists in the Chamber of Commerce rooms as an outgrowth of a combined meeting held Oct. 1 of OPM representatives, labor leaders and industrialists. At the combined meeting, a three-point program was planned for relieving the local employment problem.

The Richland County Industrial unions council selected its committee last Friday. No committee has been named by the American Federation of Labor workers as yet.

The program to be carried out includes (1) endeavor to create defense training centers, (2) transfer of unemployed workers to defense plants without loss of seniority rights, and (3), encouragement of filing of defense orders with Mansfield plants.

Named on the manufacturers' industrial relations committee were H. W. Arlin, of the West-

Kansas Farmers Face Threat Of New Storm Damage

TOPEKA, Kas. —(AP)— Waterweary Kansas farmers found their homes, crops and livestock engulfed in another flood today.

Overcast skies threatened to spread new damage along the Smoky Hill, Cottonwood and Neosho rivers in the northern and central counties.

Cloudbursts which loosed as much as a foot of rain over the general part of the state brought high water marks to Salina, Emporia, Abilene, McPherson, Council Grove, Dunlap and a half dozen other communities yesterday.

One man, Roy Poland of Geary county, was feared drowned while trying to rescue stock on his farm near Junction City.

Hardest hit were Salina and Emporia. Army engineers from Camp Funston helped evacuate 235 families at Salina where the crest on the Smoky Hill was yet to come.

The Neosho river at Emporia rose four feet in an hour to 28½ feet, highest in 40 years. Many farm families were marooned on second floors. There was a heavy loss of livestock. State highway maintenance workers appealed for boats and volunteers to help in rescue work.

Meet Here To Study Use Of Freshmen College Gridders

The Ohio Athletic conference, athletic governing body of the majority of Ohio colleges, will meet at the Mansfield-Leland hotel here at 7 p. m. Wednesday to consider permitting the use of freshmen on college varsity football teams.

The meeting was called by George Daniels of Lorain, commissioner of the conference, at the request of Professor M. S. Douglas of Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland, president of the conference.

In making arrangements for the meeting in Mansfield, Daniels told hotel officials that at least 50 representatives of college athletic departments in the state are expected to attend the important session.

In Cleveland, Professor Douglas said: "Because of the present emergency, some smaller schools have many fewer boys enrolled. They have been playing with only 15 to 18 men on the squad. There have been injuries as a result, and some talk of cancelling games. We thought it best to call the representatives of colleges together and consider a remedy."

Douglas declared permission to use freshmen would be only temporary, and granted to schools actually needing the freshmen gridders. "If the conference approves the proposal, it will become effective at once," he added.

Sounds Plea For Public To Support Half Mill Fire Levy

An earnest plea to all civic leaders, ministers and educators to get behind the Citizens' Committee for Adequate Fire Protection in its attempt to awaken the public to the need of passing the half mill levy to obtain needed fire equipment for the city was sent out today by L. B. Hamilton, general chairman of the committee.

"Your children, your homes and your jobs are at stake," Hamilton said. "Unless this levy is passed and our equipment brought up to date, Mansfield cannot feel secure. Our present equipment is outdated, much of it is ready to fall apart, and the fire department is in constant fear that some of its trucks will break down before they reach the scene of a fire, as they have done several times in the past.

"We are still using pumpers bought back in 1919, which are in dangerous shape. Many of our ladders are in an appalling condition, the steering gears on some of the trucks are worn, and we do not have enough hose to take care of our needs. If we were to have a large fire in one of our manufacturing plants, our present equipment could not take care of it. What's more, we do not even have fire boxes to call for help should a fire break out in a home fighting at Kalinin, 95 miles northwest, where a battle has been raging for some time.

The Soviet information bureau announced in its early-morning communique the repulse yesterday of "several fierce attacks with large tank formations against our positions" before Moscow.

Central and southern combat zones were cited in the official report as scenes of especially-stubborn fighting.

London observers, however, said the main effort of the German army could not long be diverted from the attack on Moscow because, they contended, a winter stalemate there would have the effect of a defeat.

It was indicated that the Germans were moving reinforcements from the Leningrad region, particularly to the left wing which struck in the Kalinin area, on the upper Volga 95 miles northwest of Moscow.

Military men here estimated Germany had 50 divisions (perhaps 750,000 men), and equipment including 4,000 tanks, to fight on after a brief breather on the central front.

The Soviet government said German tanks were the targets of Russian attacks from both the ground and the air.

Meanwhile, in London, a large section of the British press and public continued to demand that the government take definite steps to open a diversion front to relieve pressure on the Russian armies.

Soviet determination in defense was indicated by reports that Lieut. Gen. Artemiev, commander of Moscow garrisons, was using thousands of men, women and even children to create a ring of fortifications about Moscow, complete with anti-tank ditches and machine-gun nests.

The new war-time capital of Russia apparently is Kuibyshev, growing city of 390,000 on the east bank of the Volga 550 miles east and slightly south of Moscow.

A dispatch from Kuibyshev last night announced the establishment of the United States embassy there with the arrival of U. S. Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt and a group of American newspaper correspondents.

Germans Claim New Atlantic Sinkings.

BERLIN — (INS) — German U-boats sank seven merchant vessels totalling 38,200 tons in a new attack on a British convoy in the Atlantic, the German high command announced today.

Within three days, German authorities declared, the British have lost 17 vessels totalling 98,200 tons.

In the newest attack, it was stated, the British whaler Svedtoya of 14,596 tons was torpedoed and seriously damaged.

Nazis Hail Fall of Red Armament Center.

BERLIN — (AP) — German and Italian troops have captured Stalino and the German war flag is now flying from an industrial plant in that city 100 miles northwest of Rostov, the German high command said today, describing it as "one of the most important armament centers of the Donets basin."

Alpine detachments were said to have taken Stalino, a city of 450,000 population formerly known as Yuzovka, after German and Italian troops had occupied the surrounding area.

Stalino lies about 70 miles from the Donets river, a tributary of the Don.

Military commentators reported Rostov might soon become a pivotal point for a gigantic new encirclement movement to take the basin.

The German war ensign was officially declared to be flying from an important industrial works in Stalino.

German combat planes were reported to have bombed important targets in Moscow and Leningrad.

There were strong indications the Germans expected the early fall not only of Rostov but also of Kharkov, a city with a peacetime population of more than 800,000 and the chief industrial center of the Donets valley. Kharkov is 225 airline miles from Rostov.

Urges Jap Assistance In Thailand.

TOKYO — (AP) — A Japanese foreign office-controlled newspaper renewed charges today that foreign elements in Thailand were trying to stir up opposition to Japan's plans for an East Asia co-prosperity sphere and suggested that Japan's assistance to the Thais would be a "helpful move."

In a front-page editorial, the Japan Times and Advertiser declared plotters were attempting to wreck Thailand's friendly relations with Japan and said that if they succeeded Japanese forces in neighboring French Indo-China would be faced with a "hostile frontier."

"In the circumstances, Japanese assistance to a friendly Bangkok state would be a helpful move without any purpose of threatening and surrounding countries," the editorial said.

Report British Freighter Torpedoed.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The 5,462-ton British freighter Empire Crossbill has been torpedoed in the north Atlantic, New York marine circles reported today.

RAF Bombers Pound Northern France.

LONDON—(U.P.)—The Royal Air Force sent more than 200 planes on raids against Bremen, Wilhelmshaven, Emden and other parts of northwest Germany during the night and renewed its daylight offensive against northern France today.

Authoritative sources said seven times more British planes raided Germany than German bombers raided Britain during the night. They said the weather was "better," implying that flying conditions still were too poor to risk a maximum force, which is considered more than 300 planes. Bad weather had kept the RAF inactive since last week.

Bremen was raided last a week ago when 300 planes carried out what was described as the war's heaviest raid on that city.

Arlin said his committee would meet tonight at the Chamber rooms to discuss a defense training for local employes to adapt them for defense production. Members of the CIO committee had a similar meeting last night.

At least two Mansfield business men were expected to attend the Columbus meeting and possibly one labor leader. J. H. Gongwer, Mansfield attorney, and R. G. French, assistant to the president of the Humphryes Manufacturing company, will represent that company while J. W. Hawkins, representative of the United Electrical and Radio Workers' union, was also expected to attend.

The representatives of Ohio's small industries were expected to tell the congressmen how the defense program is causing them plant shutdowns and unemployment because of the lack of materials.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, chairman of the Republican small business defense committee, said that about 250 business and labor leaders from Ohio and nearby states had petitioned to be heard.

The congressional committee will present its finding to the OPM to help outline steps to prevent shutdowns of small industries.

Principal speaker at the manufacturers' meeting yesterday was E. L. Keenan, acting chairman of the Regional Labor Supply committee which operated in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky. Keenan complimented local manufacturers on their foresight in setting up an industrial relations committee to work with the OPM division. He said the committee would afford the OPM a "splendid contact point with Mansfield manufacturers."

Also present were R. L. Shaw, assistant labor supply officer from the Cleveland OPM division; M. A. Gregg, national defense coordinator for the Ohio State Employment service; and R. L. Wilcox, field representative of the State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

or school in some of our residential districts.

"The time for compromising is over. This levy must pass and it is up to all of us to see that its need is explained to every voter and that each person who has a vote goes out to use it on election day."

The speakers committee, headed by J. Howard Gongwer, has a full schedule ahead. "We have lined up speakers to explain the issue to every service club, Parent-Teacher association and other clubs," Gongwer said. "In addition, I hope that those people who doubt the necessity of this levy will go down and visit our fire stations and ask to see the equipment. I feel that is the most effective argument we have, for no one who sees how inadequate our protection is, can fail to go out and vote for this levy."

Robert Remy, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Capt. F. R. Stahl of the fire department, spoke to the Ministerial association yesterday afternoon on the need for the levy. "A great deal of enthusiasm was shown at this meeting," Remy said, "and I feel sure that we shall have the hearty cooperation of all the members of the organization."

Captain Stahl also spoke at a meeting of the Monday Study club last night, which was held at the home of Mrs. Paul Weir.

This afternoon, Capt. Stahl of the fire department, addressed a meeting of all of the colored ministers of Mansfield and representatives of the Elks lodge and Masonic temple, explaining the issue to them, and asking for their cooperation.

At a meeting of the "All-Out" Vote committee, of which Mrs. E. S. Wendell is chairman, the calendar of club meetings was divided among the members who promised to contact all club presidents to arrange for speakers to explain the levy to their members. In addition, the committee is planning to feel out public sentiment individually and help create good will for the levy.

or said: "Supplementing Saturday's telegram: War department officials have made thorough investigation and find no record of any action regarding establishment of tank training camp near Brinkhaven or elsewhere in Ohio. Have confirmed this by talking to Col. Agar, acting commanding officer Fifth Corps area at Fort Hayes. All advise there is absolutely nothing contemplated along this line at present."

The mayor said yesterday that he had written to McGregor, asking him to aid in whatever way he could any movement to establish such a camp near here at the request of local AFL leaders, who had seen the possibility of providing employment for Mansfield craftsmen on such a project.

However inquiries failed to show that AFL officials had been advised as yet by the mayor that McGregor had answered.

HULL URGES SHIP ARMING

Testifies Before Senate Committee on Repeal of Neutrality Act.

against the operation of American merchantmen to belligerent ports.

Informal polls showed 11 of the senate committee favoring outright repeal of both these provisions, 10 against and two doubtful.

One doubtful member, Senator George (D-Ga) has instructed Chairman Connally (D-Tex) by telegram to cast his vote as Connally voted. George, however, expected to be present when the question of enlarging the house-approved bill comes up this week-end, and he has indicated previously he did not favor abolishing all restrictions on ship movements at this time.

The other "doubtful" member, Senator White (R-Me) joined the minority yesterday in unsuccessful opposition to closed hearings, but was reported to have told friends he would find it easier to vote for outright repeal of the act than for piecemeal revision.

While Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky and Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the foreign relations committee were understood to be awaiting a presidential signal before seeking to broaden the house bill, Senators Pepper (D-Fla) and Lee (D-Okla), told reporters they were confident a repealer would be approved by the committee and later by the senate.

Pepper and Lee joined with Senator Green (D-RI) yesterday in proposing nullification of all of the act's provisions except that giving the president control over munitions exports.

Their measure was introduced shortly after three Republicans—Senators Gurney (R-SD), Bridges (R-NH) and Austin (R-Vt)—had laid before the senate a resolution which would wipe out the entire act.

The committee began its executive hearings on the house bill—a measure calling only for the arming of merchant vessels—in an acrimonious atmosphere generated by opponents' protests that a "gag rule" was being applied to them.

CHAPTER 1

Polly McMurray thought surely Squaw Peak would ignite at any moment.

Sunrise made an overwhelming brilliance behind it. Golden spears fanned out, piercing clouds then losing themselves in blue, and the purple of the mountain seemed to lean against those rays as if straining to hold them back.

One spear sneaked through a rock crevasse and struck Polly's horse, Pintado. The conchos on his bridle were high-lighted, and the hand-tooled silver on his saddle were little mirrors. Pintado said a fluttery "Whf-f-f-f-f-f" and started galloping of his own accord, just because he felt so doggone good this morning. Polly broke into song.

"Arizona maidens,
Beautiful and gay,
Hold a welcome for you
When you want to play.
Leave your cares behind you,
Love is here to stay;
Boys and girls are singing,
Can't you hear them say——
Viva-a-a-a La Fiesta-a-a-a!"

It was a snatch of gaiety from last year's festival in Phoenix, a hilarious week which still lingered in her heart. It had been more than a fiesta week, it had been Polly's week. She, a junior at Frontier University, had been chosen fiesta queen! Leo Carillo himself had come over from Hollywood to lead the parade, riding just ahead of her magnificent float. And that evening Gary Cooper (who was then filming a picture near Phoenix) had asked to have the first dance with her, and Leo Carillo had defied him, and the two movie stars had fought a pretend duel about her there on the ballroom floor while 2,000 people looked on, and she had danced with both of them—oh!

Things like that didn't happen often to Polly, nor indeed to any other frontier girl. Frontier U. was—well, poor. It was nice enough; wonderful, really. But it didn't rate. It's scholarship wasn't so low but in social setup and all—well, the truth is, "University" was a misnomer; it was an humble college. Frontier was established in 1930 when people thought the depression was just a week-end incident; and while everybody had hopes for it now, those hopes hadn't yet been realized. The coast schools sort of snubbed it, and even the other Arizona colleges were a trifle patronizing. But Polly didn't care. She liked it, and so did the other 600-odd girls who went there. Some day when she got rich, or married a rich man, she'd see to it that Frontier——

It was one of her dreams. And Polly McMurray had many dreams. A ranch girl has to have 'em or the loneliness will sometimes engulf her and crush her spirit. Polly at twenty-one day-dreamed by the hour and wasn't ashamed of it. Maybe that's why she was so exquisitely beautiful. So—well, so clean! Leo Carillo had sighed audibly and publicly over her, and it wasn't all pretense.

This morning she had ridden from her dad's Paradise Ranch, over in Paradise Valley, 15 miles north of Phoenix. Now she cut across smaller Deer and Moon Valleys and took the up-trail that went ladder-like right over the crest of Ho-Ho-Kam ridge. Pintado could climb the ladder. He was a cow horse de luxe; Ward McMurray's, and Polly's, pride. Polly leaned low on her saddle horn while Pintado strained and snorted, clung and stepped and leaped.

"Easy, boy!" she encouraged him. "Pick your footing— 'at's a fellow!"

He picked his footing and felt the zest of exercise, topped the ridge and halted a moment, ears erect, a beautiful brown-tan animal onto which Nature had thrown great splashes of white. Polly was glad to rest here briefly. From this high point she could look southward over most of the oasis that is the Salt River Valley—a green carpet stretching left and right 40 miles, and 20 miles to the Estrella mountains due south. Down the center of the flat valley wound the river itself; and Phoenix sprawled on either side of it, an adolescent city with voice changing, too big for its breeches in many ways, and singularly mature in others.

About 100 yards to her left was a gigantic capital F, the college initial made of white rocks visible for miles on this precipitous slope of Ho-Ho-Kam Mountain. But immediately below her lay Frontier itself.

It was 1,264 feet straight down (the mathematics department had long since measured it) from this point to the Administration Building. Polly leaned off her saddle to spit, with no sense of indelicacy. If the wind current were right, the spit would swist and curve and presently hit the A. B. She had tested it often, although the spit was hard to see after the 600-foot level. She wondered, obviously had struck the immovable thing.

"For pete's sake!" exclaimed Polly, sitting—not too delicately—on the stone steps.

The huge rancher hat she wore had been jerked comically to one side of her black head. Her blue riding skirt, fringed cowgirl style and divided for comfort, was flounced up above her knees, revealing two of the prettiest legs imaginable.

"Oh! I—I—I—I am!" The irresistable force was trying to speak.

"I should think you are!" snapped Polly, "Whatever is—are you a wild bull or something? Can't—"

"Y-yes!...I mean—no! You see—oh my!"

He had been waving a yellow sheet of paper, obviously a telegram, and it appeared now to be distinctly in his way. He fumbled it. He was a huge fellow, six feet or more and somehow as powerful looking as the oak door behind him. He was blond and his light skin was crimson now. He couldn't find his pockets, so like a boy he suddenly held the telegram in his mouth then stopped to pick up Polly McMurray.

He lifted her easily, bodily, as if she were a doll.

Quite unconsciously, in fact, he held her momentarily a foot off the stone floor and inspected her closely.

"Uhun you humpth?" he asked, earnestly, through the telegram.

Then he suddenly put her down and grabbed the paper before repeating, "Are you hurt? Oh my?"

"Yes. No...No!"

It all hadn't taken a half minute, and now Polly burst into laughter. At herself and the funny scene she must have made. The laughter was genuine, musical. She looked up at the big fellow and poked him once in the chest with her finger, an unconscious gesture.

"It's all right," she declared then. "I'm sorry I—"

"No! No, I'm the one to be sorry. Look, you're one of the students, hunh?"

"Yes. Polly McMurray."

"Oh. Oh fine! My name is Ken Palmer. I'm here, too."

"You? This is a girl's school!"

"I know, but—look here, this telegram—had you heard?..... Had you? Joy Boone's coming! Joy Boone! She's going to school here! She is!"

Polly waited, looking up at his beaming face in keen amusement, but impressed by his manner even so. Then all at once his name clicked. Palmer! She was suddenly appalled.

"Maybe you better calm down, Dr. Palmer, and start at the beginning. I'm open to conviction but—you look awful young to be a college president! And who in the high hopping hades is Joy Boone?"

Apparently he did not hear. He was staring again. Polly had begun quite naturally to adjust her hat, patting ebony waves back where the belonged and disciplining the wisps that wanted to stay out in the breeze. She had to lift her arms to do it and this gave her added grace and beauty. She was not ill at ease because she wore ranch things and he wore city clothes. Like any sensible girl, she knew when she had the right frame for a picture; she knew, without conceit, that she was pretty, for she had studied out this business of western togs a long while ago.

Nevertheless, their moment of intimacy there had been almost electric; her pulse had stepped up, and the big blond boy was wide eyed.

"Oh my!" murmured Ken, vaguely.

"You said that already," Polly reminded him. "But you didn't say who Joy Boone is, Dr. Palmer, nor why all the rush. Perhaps it's none of my business."

"No. I mean yes, Miss—did you say McMurray? Miss McMurray. And I'm not Dr. Palmer."

"Then you're not the new college president!"

"No. That's my dad; but he's tops."

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1941.

It seems that Indian Summer has shifting dates — just like Thanksgiving.

Italy is said to be preparing against a Hitler invasion—which is a new version of "locking the barn after the horse is stolen."

What seemed to be the typographical error of referring to an incumbent official as an "incumbrance" may not have been so far wrong.

Football Interest at New High

THIS is "football week" in Mansfield. For the nonce, or maybe even longer, other subjects have been relegated to the rear while thoughts and conversation concentrate on next Friday's "big night" in Massillon, when Mansfield's unbeaten and unscored-on high school Tygers (with a "y") will meet Massillon's undefeated Tigers (with an "i") in what promises to be a herculean struggle for gridiron supremacy in Ohio — with a "mythical," but nevertheless coveted, state championship hanging in the balance.

Present estimates are that "almost 4,000" Mansfield fans will attend the game—the limit seeming to be the number of tickets that can be secured, with the original 2,000 already jumped to 3,500.

And, here's an angle that shouldn't be overlooked, there's to be a special train to Massillon Friday—to take the high school band and a thousand fans.

The special train idea was developed by the Downtown Coaches association (as a non-profit venture), for the convenience of those who prefer to travel by train instead of encountering the hazards of jammed highways in driving to Massillon and returning after the game.

It also has come to light that some of the young people who plan to attend the game admit that they have never had "a train ride" and these are looking forward to the trip as a novel experience.

This is Tuesday—tomorrow will be Wednesday, the next day Thursday—and then FRIDAY! My, but it seems a long time to wait.

Pioneer In Business Education

UNLESS you knew Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Frederick during the years of their combined activity in connection with the Mansfield-Ohio Business college—which later became the Mansfield Business Training School—you will have little idea of the important part these two people played in molding the lives of more than seven thousand persons, who, in the course of years, came under their tutorage.

Both of small stature, physically, they were large mentally and exceptionally well developed in the spiritual qualities essential to effective instruction of young people.

In the early years of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick's direction of a business college in Mansfield, this phase of education had not reached the general acceptance that it has since attained and much of their work was pioneering in a new field.

Many of those who are among Mansfield's older citizens, or who are now located elsewhere, will recall with appreciation the instruction in business subjects they received from Mr. and Mrs. Frederick and will realize that they were thus helped in securing positions and succeeding to an extent that would otherwise have been impossible.

After the death of her husband Mrs. Frederick carried on the work in which they had co-operated for many years. Her passing will be sincerely mourned by many friends and former students.

Explanation To Mayor Locke

AN INCIDENT that occurred yesterday, in which it was necessary for The News-Journal to secure by phone from Congressman McGregor, in Washington, information which should have been available from Mayor Locke when a reporter called at his office in city hall, indicates that the mayor may not have full understanding of the reason a reporter calls on him each day to ask if there is anything new in city affairs.

On this occasion Mayor Locke told the reporter that he had received a telegram from Congressman McGregor touching on the subject of a proposed army camp in Richland county, or vicinity, but that the telegram was not then in his possession and he couldn't recall the contents.

It may need explaining to Mayor Locke that a newspaper reporter is not impelled by idle curiosity to ask information from a public official but that news of public interest is sought merely in order that it may be conveyed to readers, so that they may be kept informed on what is being done by officials in various departments of city business.

The president of the United States recognizes this obligation, as evidenced by his press conferences, and the same attitude carries down to all officials and public men who have had experience along this line.

It appears that Mayor Locke would have much preferred having no newspaper mention made of his action of several weeks ago in ordering the removal of a "bingo" outfit from a prominently located first floor room to a second floor location, where the gambling "couldn't be seen"—but that was a part of the day's news to which readers were entitled.

A public official who withholds information from a reporter delegated to call on him is not properly serving the people by whom he is employed—although he may innocently think that he is doing no more than "keeping the news from the paper"—without regard for the fact that the only reason for gathering the news is to convey it to readers—which, in this case, means the entire citizenship of Mansfield.

English Planning for Future

HERE is an English report that may interest Americans. Britain, in the midst of what most people regard as a terrible situation, has a land boom.

"They are willing to buy even if places do not show a profit," says a real estate man. "All they want is to safeguard their capital, and they believe there is less risk attached to land than to any other form of investment.

"There are people also who are eager to start farming themselves or to put their sons into it. Government subsidies and guaranteed prices have made land the most attractive proposition of the day, and most people believe the attraction will last long after the war."

What is happening in England seems to be already started in this country, in a somewhat milder way.

Standing Together

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MRS. A. J. CLARK of St. Louis, Mo., on the air — and plenty wroth. Says she:

"Why are you always criticizing your own sex? Everyone knows that women get the worst of it in this man-run world. There's a sort of undeclared war going on between the sexes all the time. Men always take advantage of women. Then you make things worse by siding with the men. Women should always stand together and not be traitors to each other, as you are.

Wh-a-aam! You sure do pack a powerful uppercut, Ma'm! But, getting back to our downtrodden sisters, I'm neither "siding with men" nor "criticizing women." I simply talk to both of them as if they were plain human beings. Which they are. But nothing makes the average woman madder than to tell her so. For regardless of color, caste or culture, the basis of the feminine credo is:

Men and women are different. They are born different—the superiority, of course, being on the ladies' side of the ledger. They think differently...feel differently. No man can understand a woman. But every woman can understand any man without batting an eyelash.

All of which is Poisonous Piffle, and responsible for endless malice and misery. There is no "masculine nature"...no "feminine nature." There is only human nature, which functions indiscriminately in pants or petticoats. So you frequently find a shy, sensitive spirit in baggy tweed trousers...or a brass-knuckled bully in violets and lace.

Neither sex has a corner on the Virtues or Vices. Little girls are NOT made of "sugar and spice," nor are little boys composed of "snips and snails 'n' puppy-dog tails." As for the theory that all men are Villyuns and all women Victims, it is probably the all-time tops in asininity. The truth, I suspect, is that most women would give their eye-teeth to be Victims...and privately raise 57 varieties of Cain with their meek mates because they completely fail to be Villyuns.

Time was when women had tough going. We shudder, thinking of the filth and disease, the slave block and harem. But I've seen some pretty nifty slave sales right recently at the Astoria-Ritz and the Waldorf-Carlton...and known some streamlined, domestic doghouses which made Congo huts look like cozy corners. As for harems, I'm intimately acquainted with any number of Beauteous Gals who are working overtime trying to land in one.

Times haven't changed as much as one might think. Martyrdom, in either sex, has always been a swell way to Get Attention. Or a mink coat. Self-pity was as popular an indoor sport two thousand years ago as it is now. Girls managed to Get Around—and Get Hunk — as effectively when folks were cussing the Pharaohs as they do today.

"A sort of undeclared war going on between the sexes"—you said a large, wise mouthful lady. But it isn't going on because we're He's and She's. It's going on because, regardless of sex, we're selfish, impatient, cowardly, conceited and unkind. And the answer is? CUT OUT THE JUNGLE VOODOO! GET REGULAR!

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Oct. 21, 1921.

Capt. A. L Allen was speaker at meeting of First Congregational Men's club and told of part taken by Co. M in Battle of the Argonne.

Corwin Endly entertained friends with a radio program at his home. A speech and music from Pittsburgh was heard quite clearly.

Mrs. Fred Frost was surprised by friends on her birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Elizabeth R. Taylor, aged 100 years, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. P. H. Ober, 40 Stewart avenue.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Wednesday, Oct. 21, 1936.

Mrs. Sarah Parmna, 56, died at her home in Madison township.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Fusco, Glendale boulevard.

Paul Early, 231 West First street, was ill with typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Backenstos, 115 Maple street, left for a trip through the southern and eastern states.

Mrs. Charles Woods was elected president of the Amoma class of St. Matthew's Lutheran church.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Timely Editorial

The Perfect Dinner.

The so-called perfect dinner, arrived at by the National Restaurant association by sounding out the preferences of numerous celebrities, is as good as it is typically American: Shrimp cocktail, consomme, steak, head lettuce salad, apple pie and coffee. There is just one glaring omission, no potatoes or other vegetable.

This is not a fancy dinner. Far more elaborate feasts have been prepared, banquets with the real identity of the food ambuscaded behind a formidable display of French. The average individual doesn't care to experience the state of confusion about foreign named dishes that confronted Tom Mix at a New York banquet tendered in his honor. Said the cowbody, "I et and et for two solid hours, and didn't recognize a dang thing but the coffee."—Ohio State Journal.

Answering More Health Questions

—By DR. CLENDENING

M. R.:—"Could eyes that might have been strained through reading be exercised and treated so as to bring them back to the previous strength so as to avoid wearing glasses?

Answer: Reading never permanently strains the eyes. Eyes that are temporarily strained from excessive reading should be rested, not exercised. Exercise could never overcome astigmatism and other conditions which are relieved by glasses.

Hopeful:—"Is self-administered colonic irrigation or internal bath a safe and thorough way of overcoming constipation?

Answer: High colonic irrigation, whether administered by one's self or by an expert, is a pernicious and dangerous form of treatment, and has resulted in thousands of cases of invalidism. It causes ulceration of the bowel, and in many instances, leaves a patient much worse off than before. Furthermore, it does not do a particle of good in the way of treating intestinal toxemia.

N. O. F.:—"Please tell me if the new drug sulfanilamide may be obtained at any drug store, and are the directions on the package and can it be used without a physician's prescription?

Answer: Sulfanilamide causes many disagreeable symptoms, and certainly should never be used except under a doctor's orders.

J. K.:—"Does athlete's foot infect the toe nails? What are the symptoms and treatment?

Answer: Yes, ringworm of the toenails occurs. When it involves the nail bed, there is inflammation, swelling, redness and pus formation. The toenail often becomes loose and falls out. Less severe infection causes dull, brittle nails. The best treatment is by X-ray. It is very stubborn and resistant to treatment.

Tom Dewey Plans to Shift Camps, Will Speak Against Isolationism

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The Republican isolationist logjam is slowly but steadily breaking up. Another big chunk will soon cut loose in the person of Tom Dewey.

Shortly after the New York City elections, the dapper little district attorney, who is voluntarily quitting this job which gave him his political start, will make a speech in which he will desert the isolationist camp.

Dewey will not go all the way with Wendell Willkie, GOP titular leader, who has come out for a declaration of war against Hitler. But he will endorse the policy of aiding foes of Nazism and will call for national unity behind the president.

Behind the scenes, Dewey has been wobbling on the foreign issue for some time. With his eye fixed on the New York gubernatorial race next year as a stepping stone for another try at the presidency in 1944, he has been in a stew which way to jump. What cautious statements he has made have been of an isolationist tenor and he has been considered in the "anti" fold.

But after some secret polling in key sections of the state, Dewey finally became convinced that if he wants to be governor he will have to disassociate himself clearly and definitely from any isolationist taint.

So, after the municipal elections, he will take the plunge in a speech carefully staged to ensure the widest publicity.

Gracias, Senhora.

THE FAMOUS Brazilian artist Candido Portinari recently painted a portrait of Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., who accompanied her movie star husband on a goodwill tour of Latin America.

When the portrait was completed, the artist sent it to her, but much to his surprise the portrait came bouncing back, with a letter in which Mrs. Fairbanks said that since her husband had been out of work for some months, and was now devoting his time to the service of his country (Douglas is in the naval reserve), she found it impossible to buy the portrait. The price was $500.

With a gesture which only a Latin could conceive, Portinari calculated the number of hours Mrs. Fairbanks had spent in sitting for the portrait, multiplied it by the hourly wage of an artist's model, and sent her a check.

Then he gave the portrait to his two-year-old daughter.

Note: Portinari is now painting a series of murals for the Hispanic Foundation of the Library of Congress in Washington.

New Nazi Scheme.

UNITED STATES Intelligence authorities have uncovered a new Nazi scheme to get desperately needed raw materials at the expense of our Latin American Good Neighbor policy and the British blockade.

The way the plan works is this: The Nazis get a friendly neutral European country to approach a South American government with an attractive offer to buy a large quantity of goods. Ostensibly the purchase is for the neutral, but actually it is for Germany, to whom the goods would be transshipped once they crossed the Atlantic.

One suspected deal of this kind was uncovered in El Salvador, in Central America.

The Spanish minister there offered to buy 6,000 bales of cotton from the government. With its export trade in the doldrums because of the war, El Salvador would like very much to make a sale of this size. But authorities are skeptical of the ultimate destination of the cotton.

Fascist Spain is closely associated with Nazi Germany. Also, General Franco is heavily in Hitler's debt for aid in the civil war. Authorities strongly suspect that Spain is merely acting as a secret "front" and that the cotton is sought for Germany and not Spain.

If that is true, and the cotton got across the Atlantic, it would be a double triumph for the Nazis. They would have thumbed their nose both at our Good Neighbor policy and the British blockade.

Note: Real inside reason for the war department's seizure of 18 bombing planes bound for Peru was not the announced one—that they were needed for hard-pressed Russia. The planes were diverted because Peru has been bombing open cities in Ecuador, which has no aircraft to retaliate. Lend-lease armaments are being withheld from both until they settle their border squabble.

Isolationist Strategy.

THE SECRET pow-wow of the eleven senate isolationists to map strategy for the battle against arming merchant ships, wasn't as harmonious as Senator Burton K. Wheeler, who presided, let on to newsmen.

One of those present caused a furore by suggesting that the battle be called off.

The "fifth columnist" was Senator D. Worth Clark of Idaho, one of the most vocal foes of Roosevelt's foreign policies and chairman of the Anglophobe-packed committee that has been investigating movie "propaganda." Clark almost caused Senators Hiram Johnson, in whose office the meeting was held, Wheeler and La-Follette to jump out of their chairs by counselling against an open fight on the ship arming issue.

"I think the best policy would be to forget about it and lay for the next bill to do away with combat zones," Clark said. "That's the big danger, as I see it. Arming merchant ships won't seriously imperil our neutrality as long as we keep them out of belligerent waters."

But the suggestion was roared down. Wheeler urged all present to prepare long speeches and to induce others to do likewise, to keep the debate going in the senate as long as possible. An outright filibuster, he said, was inadvisable, but the debate should be long and loud enough to make the American people "actually conscious of the steps being taken by the president to get us into war."

Nye, LaFollette and Taft also urged that arming merchant ships and permitting them to enter combat zones were "inseparable components" in the proposed revision of the Neutrality Act and should be treated as such in floor debate.

"Arming merchant ships will be inviting Hitler to fire on them on sight, whether they happen to be in neutral or belligerent waters," Taft declared.

Upshot of the secret meeting was a three-fold strategy plan: (1) To insist on "open" hearings by the foreign relations committee; (2) To put Navy Secretary Knox, particularly, and other administration witnesses, through a blistering third-degree at the hearings, and (3) To prolong floor debate.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I went out to Chic Johnson's farm over the week-end. The nostalgic trophies of 25 years of vaudeville were there. So was that prize herd of Borden's cattle you saw at the World's Fair. There was a Chinese chef and a Swedish maid. The cellars groaned under their burden of hundreds of jars of vegetables and preserves. The meadows were sweet with alfalfa.

There was a soiree room and sound equipment for motion pictures over the eight-car garage. Buried in a hillside was a 15,000-gallon water tank. A spring bubbled in a valley that had been dammed at each end, forming a lake that by next spring will hold trout. In the evening the deer come out of the thickets to steal a free meal from Farmer Johnson's apple orchard. I stood on a hillside and saw gorgeous Hungarian pheasants stroll out of a thicket. They eyed me quizzically and moseyed off, showing no alarm.

IN THE great nursery the baby calves were frisking like awkward puppies. In the nearby white, modern barns the prize herd took its evening siesta in an atmosphere sweet as apple cider.

On this farm business Chic Johnson, the hefty member of the fun firm of Olsen and Johnson, has gone whole hog. He has about 300 acres. It really isn't a farm. Neither is it just a dairy. It is a plantation. The only thing lacking is the cotton fields. If things go blooey, he could retire there and live out his life in the serenity that comes with plenty.

Johnson's farm is about 60 miles from the Winter Garden theater on Broadway, where he and Olsen are rehearsing their new show, "Sons O' Fun." This is their successor to "Hellzapoppin," now in its fourth year.

JOHNSON is a fast man with an automobile. He commutes to and from his country acres, named Winter Garden Farm, every day. No hour is too late for him to climb into his car and negotiate that 60 miles of winding country roads and hillsides. When you get there, two giant milk bottles, about 20 feet high, mark the driveway. The Big House commands the valley from a hill, but Johnson doesn't live in it. He lets the help live in the Big House. He lives in a cottage back of the Big House. Between the two buildings is a wishing well. Old hand-hewn beams and foundations more than a century old support the remodeled structures.

I went out ostensibly to fish because sometime ago I dropped by the Winter Gardens with a fishing rod in my hand to watch a rehearsal. When Johnson saw it, he stopped the rehearsal. Wild-eyed, he clambered down the stage stairs and seized it.

FISH!" he cried. "You like to fish?" Then he told of his farm and of the wonderful fishing in China lake, which was filled with bass, and as for the trout—they were so husky it was a commonplace for several of them to gang up on a man and swamp his boat, just for the devil of it. China lake was a jewel of nature set between hills, cool and deep. I saw trout breaking the surface from one end to the other.

But the trout season had ended only the day before. We were after bass. Bronze, large-mouth bass that are doggedly game. Small mouth bass that exploded in a swirl of shimmering water. That's what we were after. Bass. I hate like hell to admit we didn't get any.

A Farmer's Diary

Worthwhile Renters

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

OUR neighbors will move this week. For two years they have lived most happily on a farm nestled up in the valley. The barn is strongly timbered and spacious, the house is low-ceilinged and rambling, with black walnut finish—all, most likely, from the woodlot.

Before this family moved in, the owner had lived there himself. He was a missionary to the soil—kept it from washing and planted a lovely grove of pines now more than 10 feet tall. There he reared and schooled his children. He saw beauty in the green, rolling fields, and delighted in the growing crops. But when he thought he was too old to work so hard he made sale and moved to a smaller place.

The renter moved on in March—the rental contract was renewed at that time last year. Not often did the owner come to visit—more frequently did he approach the far border of the pines and look across the green fragrant tops admiringly. Then, perhaps, he walked to the crest of the rise and looked across the fertile field to view what had been home to him.

Last fall, the renter, unsolicited, had an offer of a larger, better farm where his two boys of high school age could be employed at home to better advantage. It was a tempting proposition, but before he and his wife considered it seriously, they called in the owner of the farm on which they lived.

"Our contract stands until March," they told him, "and we will not vacate the place against your wishes—if it costs you too much to let us go, just say so."

"No," replied their landlord, "it's a better offer than I can give you here. You take it. I shall be sorry to see you go, but never would I stand in your way. Accept the offer and I'll be happy to know you are succeeding. Someone will look after things for me here until spring."

So our neighbors move out this week—our whole community will miss them, in church, in grange, in community club and in the local high school activities. All we can do is to hope with all our hearts that their landlord may find another good renter and that they may find as fair a landlord.

COUNCIL HEARS ABOUT TRAFFIC SAFETY DRIVE

Shelby Police Praised For Traffic Enforcement By Committee.

SHELBY—Shelby police department was complimented for enforcement of the traffic safety program that was started here early last month, when the Traffic Safety committee, made up of heads of civic organizations here, met with the city council Monday night.

Police Chief Leroy Coffey told the committee and councilmen that the police had made 19 arrests for unsafe driving and four for driving while intoxicated since the program was started. About 300 traffic tickets have been given out during the five-week period, Coffey disclosed.

Present to represent the safety committee were Supt. C. G. Keck of the Shelby schools, Leo Shaw of Shelby Better Business club, John Plank and Winfield Hancock, safety chairman and president of Shelby Junior Chamber of Commerce; S. S. Kerr, Rotary club president, Dr. W. J. Briggs, president of Co-operative club; and Frank Long, head of Ad club

The committee had appeared at an earlier session of council and asked that traffic enforcement be improved.

Council agreed to compromise with Sharon township trustees on fire protection contract. Members suggested to Mayor W. R. Morris that he offer the trustees contract calling for $100 a fire for the first five fires and $50 a fire after that instead of a contract of $600 a year. The minimum for the jump contract would be $500.

This is approximately the same as a contract held by Jackson township which calls for $100 a fire for four fires and $50 a fire for any over that number. Jackson's minimum is four fires or $400 because the valuation in that township is not as high as it is in Sharon township, city officials pointed out

Council also discussed restricting parking on the west side of South Gamble street instead of the east side between the bridge and Wall street, but took no action on the proposal.

Council confirmed the appointment of Kenneth Koontz as a junior fireman made by Mayor Morris last week.

The Safety committee brought to the suggestion of parking meters for the downtown area. Council was divided on whether meters would be of use in as small city as Shelby. Several were in favor of the meters while at least one councilman said he would oppose installation.

Mrs. William Layton, program chairman, introduced the speaker, who has served for some time as director of the Federal Writers' project in Ohio.

Continuing the topic for discussion will be the program given at the next meeting on Monday when Mrs. Lester Redding speaks on "The Ohio Country." Mrs. Irl Fisher will be the hostess.

Wholehearted Forgiveness s Solution

EAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I have been a very happy mar-ed man for several years and ive two children, the youngest girl of six. Our married life is always been considered per-ct by our friends. My wife is beautiful woman and has been marvelous mother and house-eeper, always loving her home. We have had financial reverses, t through it all she has never ce complained, and has been voted, cheering me up when-er I became discouraged. We re poor, but I felt we were h in love, so I kept plugging

About four months ago I learned at my wife had been carrying an affair with a supposed end of ours—a married man—r almost a year. I became are of it when she was sud-nly taken ill and almost died. en she confessed everything t claimed she no longer loves is other man, but swears she es me now more than she did fore.

Naturally it broke me all up, I had always prided myself on ving a beautiful wife in love th me. I still love her; one n't just stop loving anyone on e spur of the moment. How-er, I find I'm gradually caring s and less for her. I don't ow what might happen to her I divorce her now. I'm so up-t. Please advise me what to do

If your wife still loved this n your problem would be less ficult to answer. But as you l me you love her, though "less d less," wouldn't you be punish-yourself if you were to break th her now? Undoubtedly if u sued for divorce, named this posed friend as correspondent, e custody of the children would given you. But all things con-ered, could you do as well for em as their mother? And the lfare of the children must be nsidered. Children are brought o the world through no volin of their own, and the least at parents can do for them is consider their welfare.

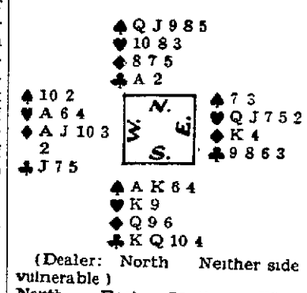
"The Authority on Authorities"

TRUMP THAT ACE

HAVE YOU ever had the thrill of trumping your partner's ace when it was the correct play? It doesn't happen often, but can be the deciding play of a hand when the opportunity for it does occur. Usually it is in a situation which demands that you get in the lead at that exact moment, so you may make some other lead which is important to successful defense.



(Dealer: North Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♦
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠

So went the bidding, or about like that, at most tables of a duplicate game. At the majority of tables, East led the diamond K, in response to his partner's bid, and followed with the 4 to the J, West having used the 10 to signal. Then West laid down his diamond A, East discarding a club. That discard enabled the declarer to make an extra trick. No matter what West led back, the declarer could lose only one more trick, to the heart A, as he could discard two of North's hearts on clubs.

Several Easts saw the right way to defend the hand. When the diamond A was laid down to the third trick, they trumped it with the spade 3, then led the heart Q. That bottled the K and enabled the defenders to score two heart tricks, holding the contract to exactly 2-Spades.

Arthur L. Pulver, one of the East players, pointed out further that his partner's signal of the diamond 10 on the first trick was a "suit preference" signal indicating that, when East got in the lead again, he should switch to hearts rather than clubs. He emphasized that no high card was necessary for a call to repeat the suit, since the mere winning of the trick by the K would indicate West's possession of the A.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"About two hours, I imagine," I told him. "That is when Miss Whitlock said it would be safe to rouse Lillian, and she has promised me that before there is any chance of Lillian's waking, she will summon both Harry and me upstairs. You don't mind my being at her bedside when she opens her eyes, do you Harry?"

"Mind!" he exclaimed. "What nonsense that is! I should mind very much if you weren't there, and you ought to know how much Lillian will want to see you."

"Then that is settled," my father said, and this time there was no mistaking the impatience in his voice. "We have two hours in which to work, but I must be gone long before that. Now, let us be seated. Margaret, will you sit here, please, beside Harry?"

Has Studied Letter.

"We have been studying this letter," he said, picking up the copy of Marion's letter to her mother which I had made for them, "together with the code book, and have come to certain conclusions. But I should like first to have your reaction, to see if we have missed anything.

"You, of course, had an opportunity to memorize the letter while you were copying it, and I know you are familiar with the code book. Nevertheless, I wish you would give them both your attention for a few minutes, and then tell us what you make of them.

Considers It Important.

"Take your time," he said. "It is true that time presses, but the message of this letter is most important."

I bent over the letter without further words, and for five minutes, at least, pretended to compare it with the code book.

When I sat back at last and looked at my father, I felt as if I ought to be smacked and stood in a corner for my deceit.

"Are you ready?" he asked.

"What have you found out?"

"These four things, I believe," I told him, "predicated upon the misspelled words so freely used in the letter, and also upon the one cliche used from the code book."

Madge Gives Her Conclusions.

I paused, marshalling my conclusions, then went on.

"In the first place, she is not going to be married, she has no fiance, and she is not in love with any gangster.

"In the second place, she was forced to write this letter, as is shown by her use of that cliche from the code book, "This thing is too strong for me.'

"In the third place, she is frantic with fear that her mother will come to the restaurant she indicated in her letter, and in the fourth place, her insistence upon Mary's seeing the letter is because she knows her mother will take the letter at its face value unless Mary can be contacted, and given a chance to interpret the old code book of their childhood."

There was a heavy silence for a second or two, then from Harry Underwood's lips came a sound that was almost a groan.

"Poor, tortured child!" he said. "What she must be going through! For of course, it is plainly to be seen that this restaurant rendezvous was planned as a trap for Lillian."

"And Marion knows it!" I said "That is plainly indicated by her last sentence, 'So Mummy, deerest, deerest darling, plees do as he asks and come to the restaurant day after tomorrow night.' "

"Misspelled words before and after the request," my father said. "Yes, that fits in. But why do you suppose Lillian went to that rendezvous tonight instead of waiting for the date Marion had named?"

"She couldn't wait," I said, for from the depths of my love for my own children, I knew well the terror which had wrung Lillian's heart. "She couldn't rest until she had gone to that place which Marion described."

Good Looks Defects Can Be Prevented

By MME QUI VIVE

On the thirtieth birthday, if not before, the beauty seeker should cast a weather eye on the future. There may be beauty squalls ahead, and when they hit her she will do a heap of squalling. Good looks defects can be prevented to a surprising degree. In fact, many of them are self-inflicted.

Fifty or sixty years ago a woman of thirty wore a bonnet, considered herself settled on the shelf and visualized a future of mending her grandchildren's stockings. Since then women have struck out on their own, got jobs, interested themselves in matters outside their small circles, learned a lot about food values, have become interested in outdoor sports, and so broadened their lives that evidences of age are pushed forward many years. But one must still be wary. Life is more interesting but it is also more strenuous. Few women have sufficient relaxation.

Whatever keeps the spirit young keeps the countenance fresh and radiant. So don't you dare fall into dismal moods; they just won't do. Doctors are always warning us about emotional sprees, the bad effects they have upon the heart, elimination, nervous system and digestive forces. We don't have to be told what they do to appearance. Look at yourself after you've had a good cry. Nose red, eyes swollen. Terrible! Don't believe that it is better to blow off steam; it isn't.

When things go wrong, when you feel outraged, indignant and sorry for yourself, take a walk. Don't give yourself a chance to have cat fits that will wear your nerves ragged, put lines around your eyes, make you wretched. Go to a movie. Read an amusing book. Find a jolly friend. Or, if you must indulge yourself in a spell of depression, pull out as soon as you can.

Good eating habits have much to do with beauty insurance. You must have a varied diet that will include all the elements necessary to well being and to build up resistance to disease. Finicky eaters are the ones who are always chasing to the dentist, mourning about falling hair, fussing about complexions that do not qualify. If you are fond of sweets and starches that are bound to be stored away in the form of fat, limit the intake. After forty the average woman takes on weight. Bulk makes for an appearance of added years.

There is the important matter of sleep. Some individuals need more sleep than others. Certainly one should awaken refreshed, eager to be about the day's activities. Loss of sleep means less animation, lagging footsteps, furrows in the facial coating.

Drink plenty of water. If you are inclined to have blackheads, or suffer from constipation, drink several glasses of water before breakfast. Don't overlook the beauty benefits of the daily bath, by which we do not mean a short session under the shower, but a rousing old scouring with soap suds and a brush to remove dead skin scales and awaken the circulatory streams. And keep sweet.

Pontiac's 1941 models were by far the most popular Pontiacs ever produced. Now, however, they are superseded by the new Pontiacs for 1942—better, in 15 different ways, than the cars they replace.

Improvements in the new Pontiacs are improvements in engineering design—changes which it was possible to make without interfering with the needs of defense. But the things that have built Pontiac's traditionally high quality over the years—such as electroplated pistons, Tru-Arc Steering and metered flow lubrication—have been retained without change.

Come to see the new Pontiacs soon. We are sure you will agree that Pontiac deserves, more than ever, to be called the Fine Car with the Low Price—the car you can drive for many years to come, if need be!

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — The election or defeat of Mayor LaGuardia in New York is a matter of national concern not merely because the office is about second in importance in the United States, but because the real issue is between one of the most excellent independent governments in our time and a return to old-time machine politics.

Johnson

Perhaps I write with too much personal experience with the Little Dynamo of decency and governmental genius to be wholly objective but I never wrote anything with more confidence in its correctness. Older and more experienced commentators than I have said that he is the best mayor New York ever had, but from my somewhat limited observation, I don't know of any mayor of any city and (I might add) any civil administration anywhere whose record can challenge his in excellence—prudence, courage, despisal of partisan influence in his job, fiscal soundness, unremitting work and energy, an expert's knowledge of every aspect of his responsibility and a complete performance of it. They don't combine in any one man once in a blue moon.

If it were not for the high character of the men who oppose him, or are silent, he would win hands down. Governor Lehman, Charlie Poletti, his opponent O'Dwyer are above reproach—excellent men.

But this in itself is, I think, his greatest tribute. They are the candidates or exponents of the Democratic machine, which, in the city means Tammany. There wasn't a chance to beat him with any political hack. His very record forced temporary decency even on his enemies.

Fiorello has no machine and practically no organized partisan support. He simply stands there on his own unequalled record and the confidence of the people in him. It should be enough, but it may not be so. Machine politics can be stronger than any individual.

The Little Flower, thus standing alone, has been strong and the recipients of his strength are the people who are not silent. Without his support, Mr. Roosevelt would not have carried the state against Willkie. With his support, Tom Dewey would have been governor over Lehman. He successfully stumped the country for Roosevelt.

Where are some of these riders on the coat-tails of the mayor now? In fear of the mid-term elections, they are either silent or in opposition. In fact some of the extra burdens this administration has put upon him in addition to his duties as mayor are hutring him now. Chief of cooperation with Canada and civilian defense — footling, inconsequential jobs are diverting his time and bringing on him the political criticism "part-time-mayor."

As a matter of fact, when the president was fishing in Republican pools for a secretary of war and a secretary of the navy, he could have done far better to take LaGuardia for either job than Knox or Stimson. Fiorello gets things done.

In this emergency, LaGuardia can't do otherwise than respond to calls of government to these lesser and shadowy services but anybody who thinks that anything can make him neglect his duties as mayor of New York City, doesn't know him. To him, more than to any other man I have known, "a public office is a public trust."

I know all his peppery shortcomings better than most people. They don't deserve a paragraph. He is sound at heart and they have no ultimate effect on his efficiency.

FORMER PANAMA PRESIDENT ON WAY TO EXILE

Leaves Balboa By Plane For Nicaragua, Inquiring 'Where Am I Going?'

By FRED PARKER
(INS Staff Correspondent)

BALBOA, Canal Zone—Apparently condemned to exile from his native land, Dr. Arnulfo Arias, deposed president of Panama, was whisked out of Panama City today and then took off from Balboa aboard a chartered plane bound for Managua, Nicaragua.

Whether he will remain in Managua or continue his journey was not revealed.

Arias was the sole passenger aboard the plane when it left Balboa airport at 5:10 a. m. It had been chartered last night by the Panamanian government, which offered no explanation.

So sudden was Arias' departure that he himself evidently had no idea where he was going. But he appeared in a cordial frame of mind.

Upon arriving at the airport he asked:

"Where am I going?"

This correspondent watched Arias arrive at the Balboa airport, accompanied by a fleet of Panama police cars. Arias stepped out of one car and went aboard the waiting plane, which took off at once.

The only persons to witness the take-off were Panama police, airport officials and this writer.

Just as he stepped aboard the plane, Arias inquired cheerfully:

"Am I going to have the plane by myself?"

Efforts to obtain official comment in Arias' sudden departure from authorities in Panama City were not immediately successful. Many officials there were ignorant of the fact that he had departed.

After being turned out of office while he was visiting Havana, Arias returned to Panama a week ago and spent five days incommunicado in the Panama City jail.

This latest development in the career of Dr. Arias occurred less than 24 hours after Panama's new cabinet adopted a decree revoking the ban on arming merchant ships flying the Panamanian flag.

Boys and girls of the Children's theater after a brief vacation from costume and scenic making are now trying their skill at another form of handicraft. This week they are making programs for the year and incidentally planning for their next program on radio technique at the home of Doris and Warren Alverson. Meanwhile the costume committee has obtained a store room in the old Congregational church parsonage in which to keep the wardrobe of the organization.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley is an inveterate sport fan. Last night, however, he felt that he needed a good night's rest and complimenting himself upon his will power decided to pass up a radio description of the Lem Franklin-Abe Simon fight from Cleveland. Kelley read two or three newspapers, saw that his watch said it was 10 p. m. and went up to bed. At the top of the stairs he found that his watch had stopped, that it was after 11 p. m. and that he could have listened to the fight after all.

OPM WRESTLES WITH IMPASSE IN NEW JERSEY

Labor Situation Complicated Further as 4,000 Leave Southern Mine Jobs.

(By United Press)

The big stick of government seizure, used twice before, apparently hung over the aircraft parts plant of Air Associates, Inc., at Bendix, N. J., today and a new walkout of 4,000 CIO United Mine Workers disrupted production at five captive coal mines in Alabama.

In the Bendix dispute, the office of production management struggled with a company-union impasse over the rehiring of strikers in an effort to avert the last resort of referring the case to Mr. Roosevelt for presidential action, possibly seizure.

Angered by the company position, the aircraft division of the CIO United Automobile Workers threatened mass picketing with volunteers from New Jersey's 250,000 CIO members.

The Alabama miners struck at mines controlled by Republic Steel Corp., the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company, and the Woodward Iron company, recordly because the mediation board had failed to make recommendations on their demands for a 40 cents daily wage boost and paid vacations.

A contract between the union and the companies expired Sunday night. Negotiations on a new contract have been in progress for six months and the CIO threatened to extend the present walkout to 23,000 other workers in the area unless agreement is reached. The closed pits supply coal for important steel and iron plants working on defense.

Refusal by the big five operating brotherhoods, representing 350,000 railroad employes, to accept an offer by a presidential fact-finding commission to arbitrate left the railroad wage dispute up to the president. Fourteen non-operating brotherhoods, with 900,000 members, have not replied to the commission's offer, but the commission stipulated that all parties to the case would have to accept before it would act.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURE TAKEN

Lima Physicians, Nurses Given Vaccine After Patient Dies of Rabies.

(By Associated Press)

LIMA — Dr. John LoCricchio, Lima pathologist, and an undisclosed number of physicians and nurses at Lima Memorial hospital are taking rabies vaccine today as a precaution against infection from a patient who died in the hospital Friday.

The cause of death was determined only yesterday in a routine examination of the victim's brain at the state health department laboratory in Columbus, State Health Director R. H. Markwith reported.

Dr. LoCricchio was exposed to possible infection when a piece of the victim's skull jabbed his hand as he performed the autopsy.

The victim was Donald J. Schaffer, 27, of near Columbus Grove, a teacher at Union school near Van Wert.

"The case is very unusual because the patient showed no symptoms of rabies and reported no dog bite incident," Dr. Markwith said.

"He died Friday, the day after his arrival at the hospital, of convulsions and brain symptoms A routine autopsy was performed by Dr. LoCricchio to determine the cause of death and in the course of the autopsy the brain was sent to the state laboratory where an examination disclosed negri bodies diagnostic of rabies."

Hospital authorities were notified immediately of the diagnosis and rabies vaccine rushed from Columbus to begin treatment of Dr. LoCricchio who said he believed there was little danger of his contracting the infection with proper precautionary measures. He declared it was "very fortunate" that the diagnosis was made quickly.

SCHOOL BOARD ASKS CITY TO IMPROVE VENNUM EXTENSION

The Mansfield board of education last night asked the city to improve Vennum avenue from Albert avenue to Cline avenue and to repair Trimble road between Park avenue west and the West Fourth street road.

With Councilman Lester Hunter at the board meeting on another matter, board members brought up the subject of the improvements. Hunter is a member of council's street committee.

Improvement of the Vennum avenue extension will enable pupils attending Johnny Appleseed Junior high school to reach the school by a direct route from the west side of the city, Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller said.

The board suggested that a graveled walk from Albert avenue to Cline avenue would serve the purpose temporarily. Hunter agreed to view the extension Wednesday with Supt. Miller and to report to council on their findings.

Trimble road north from Park avenue west is in bad condition and dangerous at the B. and O. grade crossing, making it almost impossible for school buses to travel over it, board members said. They pointed out that the detour on U. S. route 30-N makes it necessary to haul more pupils in buses over Trimble road and increases the hazard.

A part of the stretch of Trimble road is outside the city limits, and the board said the request for repairs would be taken to the county commissioners if necessary.

Councilman Hunter, who went to the meeting to obtain the board's approval of a proposed curb and gutter project on Johns avenue west of the Bowman street school, was assured that the board will finance its share of the cost, estimated at $168. Hunter said the work probably would not be started until next spring.

NAMED IN SUIT

Mansfield Man Defendant In Heart Balm Action.

Represented by Atty. George Biddle, Fuller accuses Olin of "purposely intending to win from the plaintiff his wife's affections, companionship and love and to appropriate the same to himself by secretly causing her to dislike the plaintiff by making false statements to her about him."

His petition states further that he and his wife, Lucy C. Fuller, lived together without discord until last June 24 when she lost her affection for him and became abusive toward him Fuller filed a divorce action against her in June and the decree was granted last month. The Fullers have one child.

Singer Ill, First Consert By Civic Music Postponed

Mansfield Civic Music association patrons will have to wait another fortnight to hear the opening number on the concert course due to the illness of Josephine Tuminia, coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, scheduled to appear here Thursday night.

Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, president of the association, had been notified by telegram today that the artist was ill and that upon her physician's advice would not be available for her Mansfield concert until Nov. 10.

Arrangements to obtain the Mansfield Senior high school auditorium, where all concerts will be held, have been completed according to Dr. Fonkalsrud, who stated that the rule of "First come, first served," would still prevail in the plan for seating.

Approximately 1,200 season ticket holders will hear the four concerts announced for this year including Tuminia, the National Symphony orchestra of Washington, D. C., Bialowsky, the internationally-known pianist, and Giannini and Martinelli, the Metropolitan's soprano and tenor in a joint concert.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

I THINK this is the time of year when it is customary for me to send up my annual hue and cry for the Ten o'Clock Floor Show. That is my platform for Broadway this season, and I am standing on it firmly.

Kilgallen

As things stand, niteries with entertainment—this goes the gamut from LaMartinique to the Waldorf's Wedgewood Room, to Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe— put on their shows roughly at 8 and midnight. I approve of the midnight show; it gives people a chance to get where they're going after the theaters let out, and it is not too late for those who want to be home and abed before the milkman arrives with the Grade A.

* * *

But I wish the impresarios would either put in an extra show at 10 p. m. or eliminate the 8 o'clock frolic in favor of something at 10.

The reasons for this are so obvious I should think night club and supper room entrepreneurs would be hit in the eye by them at every turn.

To begin with, dinner shows are anathema to most performers, especially those in the top talent brackets. Paul Draper now is in a position to simply refuse to do them. Ask Sheila Barrett how she feels doing a subtle dramatic bit while four feet away from her a ringsider is calling for more bearnaise for his chateaubriand. Ask Jean Sablon how he enjoys crooning to a roomful of customers whose energies are bent wholeheartedly on devouring mushrooms sur cloche.

That is Point One. The Entertainer No Likee.

Next there is the simple unarguable point that it is impossible to see an 8 (which usually means 8:20, or 8:30) o'clock floor show and go to the theater. The ater curtains (to my gastronomical sorrow) go up at 8 30 or 8:45, and between the putting down of the napkin at the Waldorf and the entering of the seat at the Music Box, there is the matter of a long hard taxi ride across town in our own incomparable Manhattan traffic.

So people who go to the theater are reconciled to missing the 8 o'clock floor show. They have to come back another time to catch it.

That is Point Two: Theater goers never see an 8 o'clock floor show.

At about this time you are saying, "But everybody doesn't go to the theater, chum. What about the people who have nothing to do for the rest of the evening?"

Okay. If they have nothing to do for the rest of the evening what's the hurry? Why put on the floor show when they're just reading the menu? Why not wait until 10, when the dishes are cleared and the diners are full of potage St. Germain, breast of guinea hen, chocolate souffle and hot, strong coffee—and then bring on the girls, or the magician, or the dance team?

Then the performers are not competing with bus boys, plate rattling, cork-popping, and Dat O'l Davil, Hunger.

There is Point Three: People who dine out at 8 are at 8 more interested in dinner than in a pair of dancers doing a gavotte.

* * *

But the main argument in favor of a 10 o'clock show is the undeniable fact of the lull between dinner and supper for those who have no theater to go to. At 10, dinner is well over, and they are rarin' to go somewhere and see something. But they might just as well go to the newsreel theater or play pinball machines at a shooting gallery on Broadway for two hours, for there is no entertainment to be found in the glitter section between the hours of 9-30 and somewhere after midnight. This is the dead part of the night; the part for which the glamour-wizards have not provided.

Boys, please do something about it. Right away.

Mansfield Called 'Team of Week' By AP Sports Editor

Sport Podge by REX HESS

They tell me the odds have dropped to exactly zero on the Mansfield-Massillon game Friday night.

Two weeks ago you could get 28 points from Massillon's big-hearted odds-fiers. After the Mansfield-Newark game you were doing good to get 14 points at Massillon, and after the Springfield game the best you could do was seven points, for just one day.

Now you'll have to talk fast to get any points. That's what Massillon thinks of Mansfield today.

Personally I don't approve of betting on high school football games. The drop in the odds is merely reported here to show the sudden respect for Mansfield's Tygers built up in the past two weeks.

Massillon money was taken in large chunks a year ago when the Massillon betters were giving 40 points. And the game wound up 38 to 0.

Even money sounds fair enough to me on this week's battle. In fact I have a hunch Mansfield is going to win.

Substitution coming in for that old one: Stagg fears Purdue. Now it's Massillon fears Mansfield. And very properly too.

I don't know why letter writers refuse to sign their names when there's nothing in their letters to make anyone unhappy.

A letter from a "Loyal Tyger Fan" today praises the Downtown Coaches association for arranging the 15-car special train to Massillon Friday night as a safety measure to take the mass migration of nearly 4,000 Mansfield football fans out of traffic hazards.

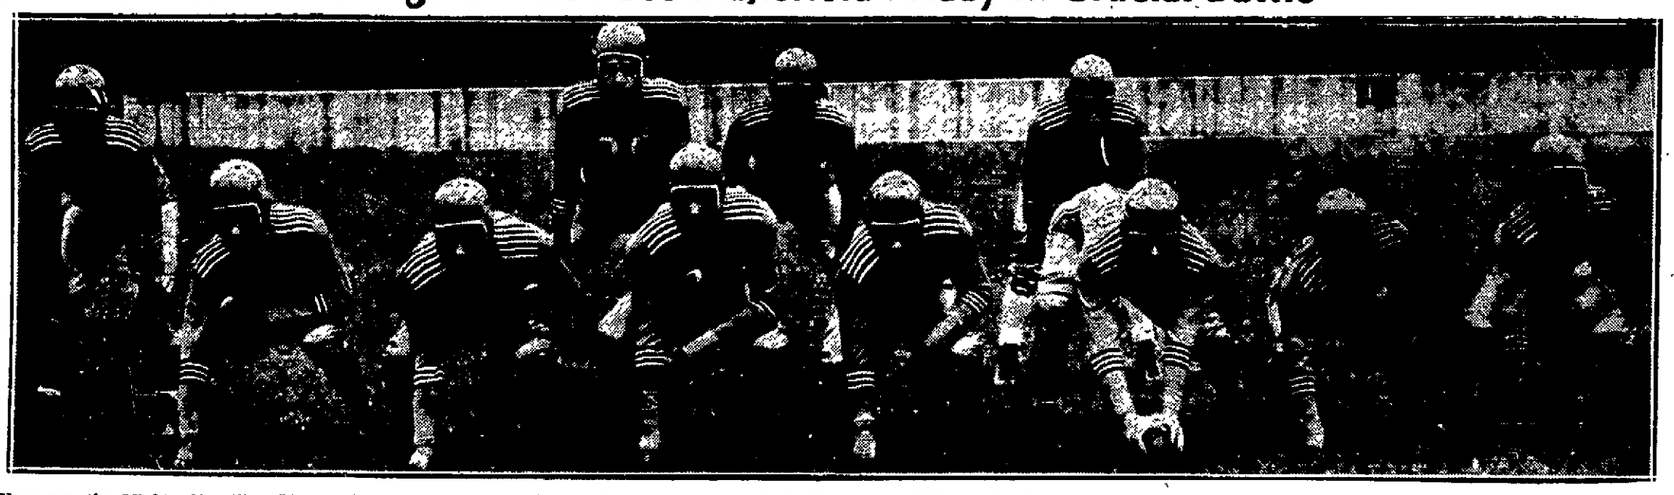
"It's one of the best ideas ever planned by a local organization," declares the fan, who urges that all who can should take advantage of the special train and escape the danger of sudden death on the highway.

* * *

I'm sure the letter from the "Loyal Tyger Fan" should make the Downtown Coaches very happy. But they'd be even happier if they knew who wrote the letter. A pat on the back is so much nicer when you know who is doing the patting.

So, sign your names, please, and I'll be very happy to use your letters.

Here Are Massillon's Tigers Who Face Mansfield Friday In Crucial Battle



Here are the Mighty Massillon Tigers who will face Mansfield's sensational Tygers at Massillon Friday night in a game which may decide the mythical Ohio high school football championship for 1941. The Tigers also will be trying to stretch their undefeated game record to 39 games, which would be a new national high school mark. Mansfield now holds a tie with Massillon on a 38-game record completed in 1933. The Massillon Tigers shown above are, left to right, linemen: Joe DeMando, George Dolmos, Vernon Welsgarber, John Hill, Don Fuchs, Dave Miller and Kevie Bray; backfield men, Junior White, Fred Cardinal, Fred Blunt and Bob Graber. It's doubtful if Dolmos or White will be in the starting lineup, however.

Brown Fears Northwestern

Five Ohio State First Stringers Injured.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Five Ohio State regulars are nursing leg injuries received in the Purdue game and Coach Paul E. Brown says it looks as if Northwestern may be "too tough" for Buckeyes in their second western conference game Saturday.

The injured Bucks are Fullbacks Jack Graf and Dick Burgett, Halfback Dick Fisher, Quarterback John Hallabrin and End Charley Anderson.

"We are waiting to determine the extent of their injuries before mapping out plans," Brown said. "We'll sacrifice a lot of speed and experience if some of those regulars aren't ready. And it looks like we'll need every one of them if we are to make a close game of it."

* * *

Scouting reports on the Michigan-Northwestern game showed that "Northwestern is faster than we are—much faster in the spots where speed is necessary," Brown added.

"It looks like we are in for our toughest ball game Saturday — maybe too tough."

Safety Cabs Win Fifth Shutout

Safety Cabs scored their fifth straight shutout in the Commercial "C" bowling league last night, defeating Southern Produce, and continue to lead the league with 15 games.

Franklin Wins Fight From Simon

CLEVELAND —(AP)— For the first time since the days of Johnny Risko, Cleveland had a heavyweight championship contender today—Lem Franklin, 201, who finished off 255-pound Abe Simon in five rounds, bettering Joe Louis' time by eight rounds

The camp of the Golden Gloves graduate launched a campaign immediately after last night's bout, which was scheduled for ten rounds, to have Franklin put in the front rank of contenders for Louis' title

The Cleveland negro smashed the huge Simon to the floor early in the first round and from then on it was just a question of time. Simon was badly battered but still on his feet when Referee Joe Sedley called a halt to the fight at 1:33 of the fifth stanza.

Bowman Still Rules Roost

Keeps Top Spot In Elementary Grid Wars.

As the tag football season in Mansfield elementary schools finished its last stanza yesterday Bowman school continued to perch on the top of the heap although not playing.

* * *

Second place Prospect added two points to its score, bringing it within one point of Bowman, by virtue of a 6-0 victory over Hedges.

* * *

Only standings change was the Carpenter push into a tie with Hedges for fourth position. Carpenter scored in the second period to beat Bushnell.

In other games yesterday the tieing wonders—Western—trotted out another tie, this time with West Fifth, 0-0; and Newman ran rough shod over Brinkerhoff 24-0.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—That Bobby Riggs rumor is back again. . . . One story is that he turned down a $35,000 offer to turn pro the other day. . . . The Pacific association is feuding with the national A. A. U. over the expense money given the San Francisco Olympic club last summer and hints that the coast boys may refuse to run in the national championships. . . . C. W. Rupp, the pro football official who managed to shoot himself with a blank cartridge gun while working in the Giants-Settlers game Sunday, woke up in the hospital yesterday to find a bluecoat there to pinch him for carrying a pistol without a permit. . . . When the San Diego Tribune-Sun ran a story on how Georgia's Frank Sinkwich is playing with a broken jaw that restricts him to a liquid diet, the headline was: "Fine Broth of a Lad."

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

Mike Brumbelow, T.C.U. assistant coach: "Any man who pays $2.20 to see a game has the right to quarterback all he pleases. In fact, it should be printed on every ticket sold."

Ossie Solem, Syracuse coach: "We might have beaten Cornell if we'd had better quarterbacking—on the field and on the bench."

IT NEVER RAINS

Frank Frisch, who amused the fans but not the umpires last summer by hoisting an umbrella to indicate that he thought a game should have been called, has received a dozen new ones from fans who liked the act. . . . A couple of Chinese halfbacks are in the running for the smallest football player prize. Toni Yagi of Johns Hopkins weighs 128 pounds and Dick Chin of San Francisco State scales 125. They're both pretty good open-field runners. . . . Zipp Newman of the Birmingham News was one of the few who called the turn on that Louisiana State-Rice "upset" last Saturday and he wasn't just guessing. . . . After Francis Schmidt's Idaho team lost the first couple of games this fall, the wolves started calling them "Schmidt's cold potatoes."

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Elliott Chaze, Lake Charles (La.) American Press: "Granted—for variety—that a curve ball is simply a rather dramatic optical illusion, shouldn't something be done about those characters who annually are beaned by curve pitches? Many of them are worried sick. They think their heads were broken."

SUCCESS STORY

When Catcher Clyde Kluttz was playing for Decatur in the Three-Eye league, he was hitting about .250 and wasn't very sure on his pegs to bases . . . but Branch Rickey was desperate for a receiver for his Sacramento club and shipped Kluttz west . . . the kid started to go with the Sacs, got Al unto the .300 class and the Braves grabbed him off in the draft. . . . But they say a ball player hasn't a chance under the "chain gang" system.

COCHRAN SET TO JOIN UNCLE SAM'S NAVY

NEW YORK —(INS)— Freddie "Red" Cochrane, world's welterweight boxing champ, today disclosed that he was enlisting in the U. S. navy tomorrow.

Navy officials said Cochrane will be assigned at once to the Norfolk navy yard with the rank of boatswain's mate, first class, with the job of boxing instructor.

Jug Game Is Rated Best

Michigan and Minnesota Clash Week's Feature.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK— (AP) —You might suspect that when two football teams from the same conference collide, even with the league leadership and possible title at stake, the game would be one of sectional interest only.

But not the Minnesota-Michigan feud at Ann Arbor Saturday. The nation's sports writers in their second poll of the young gridiron season have decreed that the battle for the "Little Brown Jug" shall be one for the country's mythical title as well.

The Golden Gophers of Minnesota retained their first-place rating of a week ago with 1,169 points while Michigan jumped all the way from sixth to third on the strength of its 14 to 7 triumph over Northwestern.

Sixty-nine of the voters thought Minnesota was the best eleven in the land while only seven gave the Wolverines that much credit. Michigan collected a total of 906 votes.

Texas, easy victor over four foes slipped between the pair of Big Ten behemoths with 1,096 tallies, less than 100 below the Gophers. The Longhorns are paired this week with Rice, stunned last Saturday by LSU.

Duke, which fluttered down a notch to make room for Michigan's abrupt climb, harvested 758 points and this week has the chance of bowling over Pittsburgh, a dominant figure in the editor's poll in years gone by.

Navy, Fordham, Notre Dame, Santa Clara, Texas A & M and Tulane complete the first ten but the Minnesota-Michigan fracas is the only one which pits two of the leaders against one another.

Next in line are: Ohio State, 206; Penn 139; Northwestern 96; Clemson 70; Vanderbilt 62; Oregon 53; Temple 51; Oregon State 48; and Stanford 24.

BOXER FINED

CINCINNATI—(AP)— Pat Mangini, Philadelphia light-heavyweight boxer knocked out in the first round by Ezzard Charles a week ago, was fined $50 by the Cincinnati boxing commission, and Dewey Fragetti, a New York booking agent, was suspended for six months. The board ruled that Fragetti misrepresented Mangini's condition.

COWAN, OLD TIME GRID STAR, DIES SUNDAY

HOBART, N. Y.—(INS)—Funeral services were scheduled to be held here today for Rev. Hector William Cowan, 78, one of the greatest football players of all time, who died last Sunday in Stamford hospital.

Cowan, captain of the Princeton football team in 1888 and 1889, was selected as tackle on Walter Camp's first All-America football team. He was credited with developing the flying wedge and the technique of boxing the tackles.

Rams Meet St. Mary's

Fendrick Players Get One Practice For Tilt.

Madison's Rams are only going to have one day in which to practice for Marion St. Mary's this week Since the game is scheduled for Thursday night at Marion, today will be the only practice day. Yesterday the gridders got a lay off as they always do after a game Friday and tomorrow will be skull practice.

In preparation for the game today the whole afternoon is going to be spent preparing a pass offense, Coach Al Fredrick said last night.

During the Loudonville game the Rams didn't attempt any passes at all, but this time it's different.

Fendrick said that although battered from the Loudonville fracas his team appeared to be all able to take the field and play.

If the Rams can cop this tilt it will bring their season standing to four wins against two losses. Before the season started they also lifted a practice game with Galion (full time and playing conditions.)

So far the Madison squad has beaten New London, Mt. Gilead and Loudonville while dropping tilts to Mt. Vernon and Dennison.

Quite possibly this may be the last year the Rams play Class B football. With the enrollment still up the team will probably be classified Class A Nov. 1 when the ratings are sent to the State High school athletic board in Columbus.

Tyger Tilt With Tiger Tops Card

Massillon Game Rates Best In Ohio This Week.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Old man "sensation" romped over Ohio's high school gridirons last week-end, sweeping six teams out of the unbeaten-untied ranks, moving Mansfield into the "team of the week" spot, and sending 10 squads on to their fifth straight conquests.

Middletown's mighty men and Cincinnati Withrow, each with four wins in a row, battled to a 14-14 tie to push each other out of the "clean" contingent, while Dover (0, Barberton 15), Bellefontaine (0, Van Wert 21), Springfield (0, Mansfield 41), and Hamilton (7, Huntington, W. Va. 19) suffered their first defeats.

Still rolling along, with five victories, were Mansfield, Warren (12, Campbell Memorial 10), Massillon (58, Steubenville 0), Canton Lehman (20, Wooster 12), Cleveland Collinwood (26, Cleveland Benedictine 0), Xenia O. S. & S. O. (26, Osborn Bath 0), Upper Sandusky (18, Bellevue 0), Powhatan (21, Adena St. Johns 6), Cleveland Lincoln (12, East Tech 7), and Portsmouth East (20, New Boston 0).

Mansfield, in turning back Springfield's hitherto unbeaten Wildcats by the unexpected count of 41 to 0, not only won the current "team of the week" laurels, but put itself in position to become the "team of the year" if it can win Friday night's contest.

However, the Tygers must do something no Ohio team has accomplished since 1934—beat Massillon. If the Tygers do it they can just about sew up state championship honors and keep a firm grasp on the national consecutive victory record they set back in 1933.

Here's the setting for what looms as the No. 1 scholastic game of the campaign: The principals are Mansfield and Massillon; the place is the Tiger stadium at Massillon, and 22,000 fans are expected to sit in.

Massillon, with a 38-game winning streak, has tied the 38-game national record stretch set by Mansfield eight years ago, and Mansfield must win or surrender the long run toga. Each has won five games this year, Mansfield beating Akron West, Elyria, Sandusky, Newark and Springfield, while Massillon has toppled Wierton, W. Va., Marblehead, Mass., Cleveland Cathedral Latin, Alliance and Steubenville.

Mansfield has scored 183 points to none for the five foes, while Massillon has rolled up 177 to 12 for the opposition, one

CLAIM TICKETS

Mansfield football fans who have had tickets to the Massillon game laid back at the high school or downtown stores must claim them by tomorrow noon or see them placed on general sale, it was announced today. Game tickets may still be obtained at the school and stores, but tickets for the special train must now be purchased at the Pennsylvania station. The Ohio Brass company has offered its parking lot to motorists wishing to leave their cars until the special train returns. There will be a dining car on the train, so that fans who have to hurry to make the 5:20 train time need not go hungry.

COUNTY ROAD WORKERS FACE LAY-OFF SOON

They'll Lose Jobs as Highway Improvements For Year Are Being Completed.

With Richland county's road program for the year nearing completion, from 15 to 25 county highway employes will be laid off Thursday, County Engineer Howard Sword said today.

The lay-off is seasonal and usually follows completion of the summer road construction and repair program, the engineer said. The workers probably will not be re-hired until the new program gets under way next April, he added.

Workmen are now grading the Bunker Hill South and McCuen road in Worthington township, which will be completed about the last of next week to conclude the construction program for the year, Sword said.

The county this year has repaired and rebuilt 39.4 miles of roads in 12 townships, about 10 miles less than in 1940, the engineer's figures showed. Except for WPA help in reconstructing about seven miles of roads, the county highway department has done all of the work this year.

The construction and repair program has included roads in every section of the county. Townships in which work has been done include Bloominggrove, Cass, Jackson, Madison, Mifflin, Plymouth, Sandusky, Sharon, Washington, Springfield, Weller and Worthington.

Soldiers at Fort Sill Roam Through Wildfire Area.

FORT SILL, Okla. —(U.P.)— Fort Sill's offer to the army selectee is wild life, and plenty of it."

But it's the other kind. The field artillery post and training center is located near the government's huge Wichita Mountain Wildlife refuge on whose preserve exists nearly every form of game animal common to the United States.

The park, with its 80 or 90 lakes, forests and mountains, center for soldiers from Fort Sill. Park Manager Ernest Greenwalt terms it important, in this respect, as a feature of national defense.

The refuge's herd of 204 longhorn cattle, including 67 prize steers with horn spreads ranging from 5 to 7½ feet, is the largest in the United States. A herd of 25 buffalo, grown from 17 in 1907, roam the area. Deer are the most numerous large animals, totaling 639 by official count although rangers estimate their actual number at more than 100 in excess of this.

AIR HOSTESSES NAME THEIR DETROIT HOME 'HAG'S HAVEN'

(By International News Service)

DETROIT—In a six-room house they have misnamed "Hag's Haven," leading one to expect to find hatchet-faced old maids haunting the neighborhood, seven pretty airline hostesses have established a cooperative home in Detroit, one of the few of its kind in the country.

These lovely seven, all hostesses on planes flying between Detroit, Milwaukee, Washington, Chicago and Saute Ste. Marie, have been living together for more than a year and report they still like it.

All the "Hags" are handpicked for their congenial personalities by the others and the number is held at seven. The girls contribute $40 a month into the general fund which pays the rent, food, laundry and the salary of the maid-cook.

Since their schedules find them at home at varying hours, the girls are obliged to use a blackboard to tell each other of phone calls, personal messages, and flight schedule reminders.

One "Hag," Matilda Ehringhaus, daughter of former Governor John C. Ehringhaus of North Carolina, explained it this way:

"We needed a place like this. It's a lot of fun and we all get along perfectly. We have no housekeeping worries and we can get plenty of rest between flights.

"When we have an opening in the membership we hold a big pow-wow and go over the prospects from every angle. Then when we decide on one, we put her one two week's probation and if she 'belongs' we have a regular member.

"There is never any friction and we're glad to see each other at home. Sometimes, though, it's a mad-house."

GROCERS HERE JOIN NATION IN NATIONAL GROCERY WEEK

Mansfield grocers are arranging special window displays this week calling attention to National Retail Grocers Week.

Once a year at this time, the corner grocer calls attention to his line of work and the progress that has been made in the handling of food stuffs in this country.

As soon as civilization began to push back the wilderness, grocers research shows, general stores handling foods and other commodities began to appear.

At first grocery items were squeezed in with other items so that a purchaser could push his way through harness and axes to purchase his flour for his evening meal.

Stores remained in this manner as the colonists pushed further westward fighting the Indians back before them.

However, around the turn of the century (1700) the first stores devoted entirely to grocery work began to appear along the eastern seaboard. Starting first with the segregation in individual stores of food stuffs the idea grew until stores handling nothing but foods appeared.

As time and science progressed it was found by medical workers that the grocery store had a great deal to do with the public health.

If unsanitary conditions existed, they found that disease could find an easy breeding and spreading center in the primitive stores.

From then on foods began to receive scientific treatments until today purchasers find food stuffs covered as protection against insects and fresh foods kept from spoiling in modern refrigerators and factory-sealed tins.

Today purchasers find their white-aproned grocer not only a specialist in bringing them fresh sanitary foods, but a willing friend in times of need and a help in preparing the family dinner table.

The grocer today will find and stock special foods to fit the whims of housewives and to help busy matrons; even more he will have them delivered to the door, saving a trip to the store.

218 Placements Report By BUC For Last Month

The Mansfield branch of the Ohio State Employment service revealed today that the bureau made 218 job placements during the month of September, or an increase of 2.8 per cent over the month of August.

Cecil W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield bureau, said that in spite of the fact that there were 633 new applications during the past month, there are only 1,477 registrants in the active file, a decrease of 9.9 per cent from the month of August.

Claims for unemployment compensation during the month of September showed a decrease of 4.8 per cent, with total benefit payments amounting to $7,097.44.

Total benefits paid out by the bureau since January amount to $93,627.02, Handley said.

We join in saluting your grocer who throughout the year devotes his efforts to supplying you with quality foods.

WORK ON THREE CITY STREETS NEARS FINISH

Construction Crews Move To Newman Street; Concrete Placed on Wood.

With projects for the improvement of three other Mansfield streets nearing completion, workers began breaking ground on Newman street today with the view of replacing its gravel surface with re-inforced concrete.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton announced that employes of the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company had laid the last strips of concrete on Wood street, which is being improved between Cline and Ruth avenues, and that asphalt surfacing would be placed on Wood street and Sturges avenue.

Workers are also completing the grading and installation of curb and gutters on Taylor road near Arlington avenue. A slag surface will be laid within the next few days.

Crafton said that the Newman street improvement will run from Orange to Fifth street and that in addition to the paving, curbing and gutters would be constructed. Industrial plants in the vicinity are making detours for loading and unloading materials until the construction is completed.

The paving of Sturges avenue between Cline and Lexington avenues was completed almost two months ago but the asphalt surface was not applied. City officials decided to wait until Wood street was also ready for asphalting so that the jobs could be done at the same time, decreasing cost.

enemy touchdown coming on a kickoff return and the other on a pass.

Back in 1937 Mansfield tied Massillon at 6-6, with Johnny Hallabrin, present Ohio State quarterback, providing the spark—but since then Massillon has won every start. Massillon's 1934 loss to Canton McKinley was its last to a Buckeye team.

Mansfield has scored five touchdowns in two of its games, and six in the other three, the 31-0 win over Newark being the lowest count, and the 41-0 conquest of Springfield the highest. Massillon, which eked out a 6-0 win over Weirton in the opener, has jumped its score each week, winning by 28-6, 39-0, 46-6, and 58-0 in subsequent starts.

Portsmouth East popped up as the state's leading scoring team, with 203 to none for the foe, while Xenia O. S. & S. O. also has an uncrossed goal line while scoring 195. The Xenia squad and Powhatan have copped 15 in a row.

Upper Sandusky's Russell (Flying Express) Wolfe scored only once against Bellevue, but ran his total points to 86 to retain the state scoring leadership, three ahead of Portsmouth East's 140-pound Don Reinhardt who picked up two touchdowns against New Boston. Jack Crider, Canton McKinley's fleet halfback, scored five touchdowns on runs of 82, 68, 29,1 and 2 yards, hiking his total to 80 as the Bulldogs swamped Cleveland John Adams 59-0.

Elroy (Lightnin') Jones heads Mansfield's scorers with 60 points, six ahead of Massillon's Fred (Pokey) Blunt.

Held Over.

Held over by popular demand, "A Yank in the R. A. F.," spectacular picture of Britain's flying forces, will continue through Friday at the Ohio. Starring Tyrone Power with Betty Grable, the picture tells the story of an American mail pilot who signed up with the R. A. F. because he wanted action. In London he meets an American chorine he had known in the States and their hectic romance is woven throughout the production that is punctuated with thrilling air scenes. Flight over Berlin to engage in battle with anti-aircraft and the evacuation of Dunkirk, filmed in co-operation with the British air ministry, are two of the most exciting sequences in the picture. Reginald Gardiner and John Sutton are in the supporting cast.

Gay Comedy.

The gay tale of a male "advice-to-the-lovelorn" radio commentator who couldn't handle affairs at home is set forth in "Married Bachelor," opening Wednesday at the Madison. Robert Young and Ruth Hussey are co-starred and the supporting cast includes Felix Bressart, Lee Bowman and Sam Levene. Mystery and adventure in the Arabian desert are the two big elements in "Raiders of the Desert," the companion picture starring Richard Arlene and Andy Devine. The two actors appear as soldiers of fortune and Ralf Harole a warlike chieftain.

Marxian Escapade.

The Marx brothers get on the job as detectives in "The Big Store," showing at the Ritz. Hired to protect the owner from an unknown assailant, they take to roller skates to speed up their work and exact only turmoil for their efforts. Tony Martin is seen in the romantic lead opposite Virginia Grey and the cast includes Henry Armetta and Margaret Dumont. "Moon Over Miami," technicolor musical, starring Don Ameche, Betty Grable, and Robert Cummings, shares the bill.

Billy Conn's Debut.

Billy Conn, the young boxer whose popularity rocketed after his bout with Joe Louis, makes his debut in pictures in "The Pittsburgh Kid," showing at the Park. Playing the role of a fighter under contract to a girl Conn refuses to take his training seriously until a shooting scrape brings a turn about face. Jean Parker and Veda Ann Borg vie for the fighter's attentions and the cast includes Jack Roper, Reddy Steele and Henry Armstrong. Ronald Colman's light comedy "My Life With Caroline," the co-attraction, has Anna Lee, Reginald Gardiner, and Charles Winninger.

Career Girl Drama.

"Kitty Foyle," Christopher Morley's story of a white collar girl, opens today at the Majestic with Ginger Rogers in the title role. As an Irish lass in Philadelphia she grows up to envy the socialites above her only to fall in love with one of them when she embarks on a business career. Dennis Morgan plays the society man, and James Craig enacts the doctor who is the second man in Kitty's life. Eduardo Ciannelli and Ernest Cossart are also in the picture. "Bitter Sweet," the technicolor operetta with music and lyrics by Noel Coward, is the second attraction. Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy head the cast that includes Barbara Bedford and Mahlon Hamilton.

STOCK TRADERS UNDECIDED ON WHERE TO GO

Westinghouse Revives After Slipping To New Low For This Year.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The question of where to go and how continued to keep today's stock market in a narrowly irregular area.

Rails and scattered industrials inclined to edge forward at the start in quiet dealings but many leaders were unchanged or a shade in arrears near the second hour.

Given a mild early lift were N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Chesapeake & Ohio, Chrysler, Du Pont and Eastman Kodak.

Westinghouse, a recent weak performer, slipped to a new low for the year but eventually revived. Backward were Bethlehem Steel, United Aircraft, Western Union, and General Electric.

Some cheer was derived from the forecast of the department of agriculture that prices received by farmers in 1942 would top those of the current year by nearly 25 per cent and that the national income would register an expansion of 10 to 15 per cent over 1941.
